

equinox

The day when the sun crosses the equator and the night and day are the same length

The first day of spring and the first day of fall are the two equinox days each year. The word equinox means “equal night”.

